2022 VFF election nominees announced

The Victorian Farmers Federation (VFF) has today announced the nominees for positions to be contested in the upcoming 2022 VFF elections.

VFF Interim CEO and Acting Returning Officer Robert Taylor said elections would be held for a number of positions.

“The VFF is pleased with the level of interest among our membership to take on these important roles to be the voices of the Victorian farming community.”

The elected positions that will be contested and the nominees who will contest them, are as follows:

VFF President

- Emma Germano
- Paul Mumford
- Meg Parkinson

VFF Vice-President

- Danyel Cucinotta
- Bernie Free

VFF/UDV President

- Mark Billing
- Ian Morris

Livestock Commodity Council Additional Councillor Position

- Tom Gooden
- Bradley Venning

Mr Taylor stated that where other elected positions were uncontested, or ineligible nominations were received, those nominees would be contacted.

Election results will be formally announced in December 2022.

Voting in the VFF elections will open for all eligible VFF members on Monday 14 November 2022 and close at COB Tuesday 13 December 2022.

The 2022 VFF elections are being conducted via postal vote and next week eligible voters will receive a pack outlining the process.
